

How to change the account number of the distribution box

Overview

The best process for changing all account numbers is to use the PSTL tool or an ISV called Changer?

. Then when you enter a transaction in for that vendor, it'll enter that GL number in the distribution on the PURCH line automatically! How can I set it up?

Simple pull up a vendor. The Payables Management or Receivables Management transaction contains a distribution line where no General Ledger (GL) account has been specified. This means you do not need to run Macros to make changes on existing transactions. All you really. You can change the account group for the following partner functions: Steps Here we take the example of a customer who has been designated as a payer: 1) In the SD Master Data Screen, select Business partners — Customer — Display — Change account group. You reach the Change Account. When we use the "payables manual payment entry" window to apply payments the distribution is defaulting to an account that is not accurate. Run integration manager to integrate EXPENSE with accurate. But sometimes there is a different code that should be used for the purchase. I know that I can edit the line item on the receiving document to change to the appropriate account.
